Editorial Comment

All this week, we have been celebrating consciously, subconsciously, or uncounsciously, National Education Week. Tomorrow evening we celebrate it definitely by welcoming our parents and friends to two of our regular classes. We feel that they should rightfully view the progress that we are making, and the obvious pride we take in making that progress. The purpose of National Education Week is to narrow the breach between school and home. Do your part by telling your friends and parents that they are welcome tomorrow evening.

Friday brings us another of our speakers from the School Assembly Association. Do you remember how much we enjoyed Mr. Geoffrey Morgan? Undoubtedly this speaker will prove to be as interesting. Also, do you remember that Mr. Merrill requested that we tell our friends when we were going to have a special speaker? Why not do so, in order that others may derive benefits from these lectures?

SWEET SENIORS SELL SWEETS

The date of the Senior Candy Sale is drawing near, or so the committee in charge informs us. The Committee consists of Eve Cleveland, Connie Alexander and Harriet Weaver.

The occasion is the Manhasset-Port football game to be held at Port on November 15th; a game which promises to be one of the most thrilling of the season. It will prove much more enjoyable, however, if you patronize our fair damsels between the halves. You will receive a royal welcome.

A candy sale is a student enterprise, and deserves your support as such, so be there and bring lots of "dinero" with you.

Thursday Offers Nocturnal Classes

Open House to Parents

The National Education Society has designated the week beginning November tenth as National Education Week. Schools all over the country are observing it fittingly.

Although various kinds of education week programs have been tried here in previous years, the most satisfactory seems to be that which has been in practice for the past two or three years; that is, the plan of holding a session of school one evening during the week. On that evening, Thursday, November thirteenth, our parents and others who take an interest in the Port Washington schools, but for whom it may be inconvenient to visit the schools during the daytime, have an opportunity to inspect the school, see just what sort of work is being done in classes, and become acquainted with members of the faculty.

School will begin on Thursday morning as usual at eight forty-five, and will continue until twenty one minutes past twelve. The first and sixth periods will be omitted, and the fourth and fifth period classes will be held at the same time. The evening session will commence with an assembly in the auditorium at seven-thirty. For the assembly program the dramatics class will present scenes from "Romeo and Juliet", while selections will be offered by both the school orchestra and the band. Immediately following the assembly the first and sixth period classes will be conducted, in such a manner as to present a general view of the work covered daily.

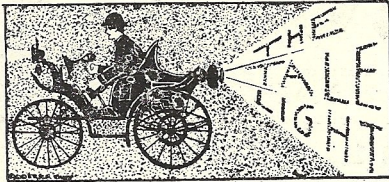

George F. Morse to Be Speaker in Assembly

Another treat is in store for the students of Port High who have learned to look forward eagerly to the speakers sent by the School Assembly Association. The next speaker on the list is Mr. George F. Morse, who will talk to us at 9:00 o'clock Friday morning, November 14th.

Mr. Morse is an eminent zoologist and authority on animal life, and has made in recent years many valuable discoveries in the field of natural history. He was for five years director of the Boston Zoological Gardens, and he has been selected to direct the construction of the new Chicago Zoo. He will become its director upon completion.

Mr. Morse will tell of many phenomena of animal life he has observed, and will also entertain us with numerous anecdotes of a humorous nature.

This will prove to be an interesting as well as beneficial topic to all of the students, since it is the first lecture of such a nature.

Poets! Hear Ye!

Any aspiring poet who desires to see his works in print will be cheerfully accommodated if he will present his efforts to some member of the staff of the Port Weekly and ask the member to present it to the Fraternity columnist.

The Fraternity is planning a recital to be given here in Port by the Columbia University Glee Club of forty voices. There is as yet nothing definite to the proposal, but something will soon be decided upon.

As an effort to assist Mr. Bergan in his plan to give the school some musical organization worthy of the name, we make a suggestion to those male members of the school who have voices which might be used to good advantage in the Boys' Glee Club. Perhaps if the club became proficient enough it might be possible to present a light opera of some type this Spring.

How many of you were over at the Westbury football game on Election Day? Not many in all probability. However all can be forgiven if you will appear at the last few tilts which are to be played in Port on Seiber Field. Our team is going to face its greatest rival, Manhasset and its most historic rival Glen Cove on successive Saturdays. Both of these squads are aiming for Port as the Blue and White has handed them defeats for two years in a row.

Have you noticed the ivy on the Grammar School building? When we entered the portals of the building in September the leaves were still green, but now seated in Mr. Dimmick's home room we can see the leaves have turned to that brownish red, which only nature can produce.

Jackie Corrigan and Betty Nelson remained home from school last Wednesday to bake a cake for Red Curtin, who was injured in the Westbury game. The cake was decorated with a football picture and the names "Jackie" and "Betty". Red said that the cake was the best he had ever eaten.

OUR SHIP COMES IN

A rather diversified program was the feature of last Friday's assembly. The two drawings of the emblems were shown, and the result was the choice of emblem number one.

The new school banner was displayed by two members of the Fraternity, "Puck" Di Giacomo and George Margolin. With a school emblem and a beautiful new school banner, Port Washington High School certainly has a right to feel on top of the world. The assembly was closed with a few cheers and the singing of the school song, a performance which is improving each occasion upon which it is sung.

Hockey Girls Hold Hicksville

Game a Scoreless Tie

On Thursday, the 6th of November, the hockey team journeyed to Hicksville for their second tilt with that school. The first encounter which opened the hockey season at Port Washington ended with a 2-0 victory for the Blue and White. Last Thursday, the game was a stiff battle from start to finish, resulting in a scoreless tie. The teams were most evenly matched. Port has not been defeated at all this year, and Hicksville has had a rather successful season.

Port's team worked hard and got the ball within a few yards of the goal many times but Hicksville's defense was too much for the girls, and each time they were driven back.

Hicksville threatened Port's goal an equal number of times but they were held back also. Once they did manage to get the ball in the goal, but luckily, for Port, it did not count.

Band Sports New Outfits

Has everyone seen the new jackets that the members of the band are sporting? They were obtained through the interest of Mr. Schreiber. They came as a complete surprise to the bands boys, just in time for the big Westbury game. Clad in these nifty blue and white uniforms, although the rainy weather lent them no charm, the band paraded on the field, led by their pompous and dignified drum major. Before the game, the boys played several numbers in the gym, for the personal benefit of the team, and certainly, this must have been partly responsible for the fine spirit which won the game.

The Girls' Glee Club, it is rumored, will have a prominent part in the Christmas assembly, with appropriate selections by the entire group and perhaps with some individual solos.

The Weather Forecast

Although the overcast skies of Manhasset threaten cloudy weather within the next forty-eight hours, the strong winds of Port, now prevailing, are scheduled to drive away all clouds and bring clear, victorious weather to Port by Saturday at the latest. This Manhasset storm, which is responsible for certain unsettled conditions in various schools, is due for a sharp drop in temperature.

Pawtucket Wins Dramatic Contest

All Casts Deserve Praise

On Saturday, November eighth, Port Washington High School celebrated Dramatics Day, and it is hoped, established a precedent in the annals of dramatics in Port.

The Pawtucket High School, whose play was entitled "The Managers" was the winning production, in the opinion of the judges as well as in the opinion of the audience. The excellent character portrayal and concise diction of Joseph Fisher as Hiram Salters; the falsetto of Stephen Nye as Timothy Tidditt; and the charming sweetness of Evelyn Walmsley as Gertie, all lent their efforts in the winning of the contest.

Great Neck High School came in for second prize, winning the set of Barrie's Plays, presented by the "The Play Troupe". Their fine presentation and gorgeous costuming easily accounted for this choice. Glen Cove High School with their play "The Finger of God" was given honorable mention. It was a very difficult play to produce, however, and the cast portrayed the characters exceptionally well.

All the other schools deserve a great deal of credit for the high type of work done, and altho Port did not compete, the Red Domino presentation obtained much favor.

The Red Domino played host at an informal dinner before the evening performance. All the members of the Red Domino and the members of the casts and production staffs of the contesting schools were guests. On the judges table, the silver loving cup, the goal of the contest, loomed as a bright incentive for the efforts of the contestants later in the evening. After dinner, dancing was enjoyed in the cafeteria.

Following the evening performance, Miss Beeman presented Pawtucket with the cup; Mrs. Rankin presented the books; and Connie Caldwell, president of the Red Domino, awarded the individual prizes.

The Red Domino is to be congratulated on their successful undertaking.

Sophs Entertain Royally

Did everyone have a good time at the Soph dance on November seventh? Foolish question number nine hundred ninety-nine!

The decorations were very attractive in colors appropriate for autumn; the crowd was gay; the orchestra snappy; who could want more? It was great to see so many of our faculty members among the care-free dancers. It is to be hoped that they will grace all such future events. Our illustrious alumnae, not to mention alumni, were there in numbers also. They all seemed so glad to be with us, but no more so than we were to have them.

The Sophs deserve a great deal of credit for their first dance effort, and may feel entirely satisfied with the result.
