Editorial Comment

Tomorrow, the twenty seventh of November, has been set aside by the President of the United States as Thanksgiving Day. Each year we look forward eagerly to the family reunions, particularly the Thanksgiving dinners, then, perhaps for a lucky few, the football games. This year, in a time of general depression, if you are more fortunate than your fellows—give thanks!

As you see, the marking period is again on the scene. How happy life would be without the materialistic rating that we are given, just for the purpose of designating our standing! But, how exulted we feel when we receive a 90 on our report cards, altho we do deem it silly to recognize the marks as a method of distinction in intelligence!

The Port Weekly is publishing the literary issue on December seventeenth. All material must be in on or before December eighth. We want this issue to be your issue, so everyone take advantage of this opportunity.

Teachers Tip Cups And Play Cards

Friday afternoon, November twenty-first witnessed one of the Friday afternoon teas which the ladies of the faculty occasionally hold. The faculty dining room was gaily decorated with appropriate Thanksgiving colors, including yellow pumpkins and fat turkeys displaying themselves on the bridge tallies. When the guests had assembled, tea and cakes were served, after which bridge was played until six o'clock. First prize, an unusual pitcher of German pottery was won by Miss Alice Griswold, while the booby prize was won by—but perhaps it is wiser not to mention names in this connection.

Former members of the high school faculty were guests. Among those who attended the party were Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Seeber.

RETORT TURNS TO DRAMA

In the assembly program of November twenty-first the Retort Club distinguished itself by presenting, "All Wet", a scientific treatise on water.

The audience was held in a continued uproar by the excellent acting of Vincent Moore as Professor Vacuum, and Alton Paddock as Herr Tonic. The most important part of the production, the chemical effects, was handled by Charles Calvert, by whose untiring labor such a delightful and instructive show was made possible.

CIRCLE PLANS DANCE

The Circleites were busy this past week. Monday evening the seventeenth, they held a meeting in the science room. The meeting was to be purely social but as usual a little business matter crept in.

It was suggested that since La Tertulia was not giving a dance this semester, the circle should take the sponsorship of one. Altho the date was not definitely decided upon, January tenth seemed to be the most probable. Louis Kent, the president, appointed a committee of three consisting of Frank Jenkins, Barrett Border, and Alton Paddock to make more definite arrangements.

MARKS CLOSE TODAY

Marks for the second period of six weeks will close today, Wednesday, November twenty-sixth. After a week of high pressure suspense, the report cards will be issued. That occasion on which the most diversified expressions of agony, despair, and rapture are worn by pupils, will fall on December third, the first Wednesday after Thanksgiving holiday.

Stamps and Book Donated

The library announces a gift of stamps for the stamp collection from Walter Morris. Also a new book, a biography of Napoleon, the gift of Mr. Harold Smith, has been added to the library.

Port Pigskin Sees Thrilling Season

Team Wins Hearty Support

The 1930 football season has come to an end, as all things must, and even though Port cannot boast the honor of this year's North Shore championship, it has many reasons to be proud of its team, its coach, and its school.

The games were played under divers field conditions and in all kinds of weather. For the opening game with Hicksville conditions were ideal. At Far Rockaway the game was played on shifting sand against a far heavier team. At Westbury the men played in a pouring rain, struggling in a sea of mud. The team played football—good, hard, clean, football—under all the varied conditions, only occasionally exhibiting a trace of the prevailing vogue so noticeable in the business world this year, namely, depression. As usual, the enthusiasm, or lack of it, on the part of the spectators was sharply reflected in the spirit of the team.

Only three games were lost those of Far Rockaway, Great Neck and Glen Cove. The contest with Southampton resulted in a scoreless tie. The other games were won.

These results are tabulated for ready reference:

Versus	Port Wash.	Opponent
Manhasset	6	0
Hicksville	7	6
Far Rockaway	0	18
Southampton	0	0
Great Neck	0	26
Westbury	13	0
Glen Cove	16	19

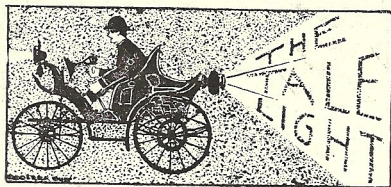

However, in the hour of triumph, let no one forget the scrubs who took the bumps and asked no streaming headlines for their pains! After all, it is the spirit of the game that counts, and each member of the squad has demonstrated his own zeal and valor.

Coach Costello, Captain Lanman, and the entire team, not forgetting all the scrubs, deserve unlimited praise and congratulations.

Buy Your Tickets Now

The big dramatic production of the season, "Pomander Walk," is to be given under the auspices of Red Domino, on Friday, December twelfth. Students of the high school are entitled to buy tickets for themselves, their parents, and friends before the sale is thrown open to the public.

Reserved seats in the central part of the auditorium, and the first three rows in the balcony are one dollar each. Other seats in front of the balcony line and the last three balcony rows are seventy-five cents each. General admission seats under the balcony are fifty cents each. Orders for tickets will be taken Wednesday morning, November twenty-sixth, and the tickets distributed on Monday, December first.

The first item that is on our mind is to congratulate our unbeaten, once tied, girls' hockey team. Any team, in any sport, that can go through a season playing competitors of equal rank, and have some school shiver at the thought of playing them deserves praise. Adelphi College refused to play our girls, as did also Baldwin High. Mildred Pearce is the Captain of the hockey squad.

The Fraternity Dance has been definitely set for the fifth of December, and everybody is cordially invited. There will be good refreshments; good, or rather, excellent decorations; and the always sparkling rhythms of the North Shore Commodores. Last year the Fraternity achieved the distinction of having given the most brilliant function of the year, with the sole exception of the Junior Prom. The boys are out to continue this record and the results should be par excellence.

The people on the side lines did one thing in the game with Manhasset that goes down as a black mark against the honor of the Blue and White. They booed a player on the opposing team. That is, to say the least, most unsportsman like. It is not the usual Port High courtesy to do a thing of that kind, and we regret its having happened.

George—, one of our Fraternityites, recently called on a girl. It is reported that they spent the evening reading the Bible. Our detectives swear this is hard to believe but possible.

PLAY TROUPE PLAYS

On Monday evening, December first, the Play Troupe will present their annual bill of one act plays in the high school auditorium. Students will be interested in attending for several reasons; because the art classes are making posters to advertise the event, the best of which will be awarded a five dollar prize; also, because the members of Red Domino will act as ushers; and because Miss Hawthorne will play the leading role in "Helena's Husband", the delightfully humorous farce which will close the program. Tickets for high school students for their own exclusive use, will be fifty cents.

Schedule for the Week

Following is the schedule for the week of December 1st-6th, 1930:

Monday, December 1st—Commercial Club.

Tuesday, December 2nd—Chess Club. Girls' Glee Club.

Wednesday, December 3rd—Celerity. Fraternity. Report Cards issued.

Thursday, December 4th—Girls' Glee Club.

Friday, December 5th—Report Cards returned. Assembly. Fraternity Dance.

Port Defeated In Last Game

On Saturday, November twenty-second, Glen Cove vanquished Port's eleven 19-16. This was Port's third defeat in seven games.

Port kicked off to Glen Cove's ten yard line, but the ball was run back to their twenty-five yard line. After several plays, a line plunge was made, and Polk went over for a touchdown with DeMeeo making the extra point. After a series of plays by both teams, Port pushed the ball to Glen Cove's forty yard line, was penalized fifteen yards, and threw a pass which was intercepted by Glen Cove and was run for a touchdown.

During the second quarter Glen Cove made a twenty-eight yard run resulting in a touchdown. After another series of plays by both teams, Glen Cove made a long end run which brought them to Port's two yard line. They then went over for their third touchdown. Their try for the extra point was successful.

The second half opened by Port's kicking to Glen Cove. After some punting Port pushed down the field for a touchdown by DeMeeo, and an extra point by Terrell. Port then kicked off to Glen Cove who punted to the center of the field and ended the third quarter.

In the last quarter, Port pushed the ball to Glen Cove's fourteen yard line, and then lost it on downs. Kalinosky recovered a fumble by Glen Cove on the other side of the end zone, resulting in a safety, and two points for Port. After another short play the whistle blew, ending the last game of the season.

Irwin Leads Band Parade

Drum Major Irwin led the High School Band up Main Street just before the season's last football game with Glen Cove, this past Saturday. The band was preceded by a police escort, the high school cheer leaders, and a squad of football players carrying the school banner. Much favorable comment was heard on all sides praising the fine appearance of the boys.

The Weather Forecast

After the gloomy spell of wet weather, arrives clear skies forecasting a welcome change. Thanksgiving holidays will probably bring windfalls of turkey and pumpkin pie.

An Ancient Rival Is Vanquished Foe

Port Victorious by 6-0

On Tuesday, November fourteenth, Port defeated Manhasset by a score of 6-0. This was Port's third victory of the season, and one of the most exciting games.

The game started by Port's kicking off to Manhasset. The ball stayed near the center of the field during the first quarter. Manhasset made three incomplete passes, blocked one of Port's punts, and secured two first downs. Port made one first down. At the end of the quarter Lafferty substituted for Karazia.

In the second quarter Manhasset reached the two yard line by completing two passes, then fumbled the ball on the next play, and Kalinosky from Port recovered it. Then Port punted out of danger. In this quarter Terrell was hurt while trying to catch a pass, and Kosofski substituted for him. Manhasset made four incomplete passes and two first downs. Port completed a pass, made one incomplete pass, and two first downs.

At the start of the second half, Terrell replaced Kosofski who had substituted for him. After one kick out of bounds a successful kickoff was made. In this first play DeMeeo was hurt but stayed in the game. Manhasset punted to Port. Polk then made an end run for a first down. After a six yard line plunge, a pass from Lafferty to Polk was completed. Port lost the ball to Manhasset on downs, and Manhasset, after two first downs, threw a forward which was intercepted by Lafferty. Then after an exchange of punts, Port fumbled the ball to Manhasset. Manhasset then punted to Port. Jenkins on Port then completed a pass.

In the fourth quarter, after two more exchanges of punts, Polk gained twenty-one yards on two end runs. Then a lateral pass from Terrell to DeMeeo worked and DeMeeo got away for the only touchdown of the game. Port again kicked off to Manhasset who made an aerial attack on Port. Out of six passes attempted, one was completed. The game ended with the ball in Manhasset's possession on their own fourteen yard line, after a punt by Port from the center of the field.
