Anne Ross Takes 1941 Valedictory Honors

Red Domino Presents Spring Comedy, 'The Milky Way', Tomorrow Night, 8:30

Tomorrow night at eight-thirty the Senior High auditorium will be packed with expectant townspeople, come to see the Red Domino's Spring presentation, "The Milky Way". This play, written by Lynn Root and Harry Clark, was a hilarious success on Broadway for an entire season. The High School production is directed and staged by Mr. Edward Ehre and the cast is as follows:

Spider, Martin Petretta; Speed McFarland, Pierre Loiseaux; Anne Westley, Rutledge Ray; Gabby Sloane, Harold Johnson; Burleigh Sullivan, Homer Allington; Mae Sullivan, Dorothy Lunde; Eddie, Kemp Reade; Willard, Douglas Jacobson; and Wilbur Austin, Lawrence Lord.

Tickets will be twenty-five, thirty-five and fifty cents. G. O. tickets will be honored. The G. O. will hold a dance in the cafeteria afterwards for students who wish to come.

Admission will be your G. O. ticket, or 15 cents, couple or stag.

The play has been in rehearsal for four weeks, and at this date presents a very promising appearance. The story itself concerns Burleigh Sullivan, a meek, diminutive milkman, who is railroaded by Gabby Sloan, an unscrupulous fight manager, into becoming a prize-fighter. His sister's efforts to save him from these "corruptible" influences only brings about a love affair between her and the world's middle-weight champion, Speed McFarland. Burleigh's fighting reputation in the ring is built up through a series of fixed fights, until he is finally booked against Speed. From there the action moves swiftly to a surprising ending.

For laughs this play is tops. To quote Robert Benchley: "That old sound you hear in the vicinity of your seat is you yourself laughing."

Band Concert March 29

The annual concert of the Port Washington High School Band will be presented on Saturday night, March 29, at 8:30 under the direction of George Christopher, director of music. This will be the tenth year in which this concert has been given.

June Rivers will be drum soloist, Richard Kirkup, French horn soloist; John Villani, baritone soloist.

This affair is included on the G. O. tickets and tickets are on sale to all others from band members.

Clio Discusses Bus Trip

On Wednesday, March 12, the Clio had its meeting at 3:00 P. M. The remaining new members were initiated, and the trip to New York was discussed.

The G. O. announced this week that it is going to sponsor its first big extravaganza and musical show, "Cornz-a-pop-pin," with apologies to Olsen and Johnson. Mr. Ehre is looking for people who can dance, sing, play an instrument, perform tricks of magic, present a monologue, do a pantomime or any novelty stunt which might be entertaining. This is not an amateur hour or talent search but an actual show. All people who like to contribute in any way to the show should come to Mr. Ehre's room at three o'clock Wednesday.

Port Weekly Members Attend Press Meetings

On Thursday and Friday, March 13 and 14, some members of the Port Weekly staff attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Conference. Those who went were: June Johnson, Kathryn Woodward, Ruthanne Studebaker, Roanne Hicks, Barbara Reade, Jean Metzger, Natalie Porter, Roy Larssen, Everett Wilson, Dale Bronson, and Martin Lewis. They attended many interesting lectures based on subjects concerning the school newspaper.

The Port Weekly received a second rating (the same rating they have received for the past ten years) and our staff and contributors may well be proud of the success of their paper.

Sergeant Wise Is Salutatorian, 2nd

Anne Ross is the valedictorian of the class of 1941 at the Port Washington Senior High School, it was disclosed today when senior honors were announced. The second place in the class was taken by Sergeant Wise, as salutatorian. Miss Ross' average is 1.11, on the scale in which 1.00 would represent a perfect record, with all marks H's, while Wise's average was 1.35. There are 180 members in this year's senior class.

The others in the first ten of the class are as follows: 3, Martin Lewis, 1.36; 4, Filomena Forgiione, 1.47; Rose Smiles, 1.51; 6, Ryder Amthor, 1.53; 7, Joan Anderson, 1.55; 8a, Helen Davis, 1.69; 8b, Eugenia DeMeo, 1.69; 10, George Aitken, 1.72.

Also Is Diving Champion.

While Miss Ross has been earning these honors in school, she has also been gaining recognition in aquatic sport, by winning the Junior National Diving Championship. She has participated in school athletics, has worked on the publications staffs, has belonged to numerous clubs, has held several homeroom and class offices, has sung in the choir, and is a member of the Circle Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Wise has won distinct honors in football, and has been a member of the basketball, baseball, and track teams in addition. He has been homeroom president, junior class president, Fraternity president, and a member of the Retort. He is also a member of the Circle honor group.

To Anne and Sarge:

We extend our heartiest congratulations to Anne Ross, our valedictorian, and to Sergeant Wise, salutatorian. It is truly a distinct honor to top a class of one hundred-eighty, and Anne and Sarge have won their honors through hard work.

And to the rest of the highest ten, and to those in the first quarter of their class, congratulations also. Their scholastic achievement is outstanding.

Only With Their Help

Among those who should be commended on their good work in keeping the halls cleared at noon time are the members of the Traffic Squad. Only through their cooperation has the council been able to carry out their plan for the care of the cafeteria and the halls. The "cops," as the Squad is commonly called around school, are on duty every noon, both in the upstairs hall and down on the ground floor. The great respect which is shown them by the pupils of the high school, and the willingness that they themselves have shown to give up their free time have been of much aid in the new plan.

We're Proud Of You

Nothing is more gratifying than a winning basketball team. Ask the students of Port High, they know. All our hearts swell with pride when we think of the fine work our boys have shown this never-to-be-forgotten basketball season. They showed us that Port can stand on the top with the best of them and stay there. We want to congratulate each player individually for his splendid performances. You certainly have proved that a good team can pick up a school's morale and bring forth some school spirit, which is usually kept under cover. But know our hearts and souls are extended to you, not only for being a victorious team, but because you will always be the "Fighting Gentlemen" and the best of fellows.

Annual Columbia Trip

After a two hour journey, consisting of riding in the bus (it didn't break down, either) and standing in the subway, the twelve people from Port attending the Scholastic Press Association Convention arrived at Columbia University.

During the two-day (March 13 and 14) convention, the Port delegation heard both dull and interesting speeches by famous people in the journalistic world.

The chief pleasure derived from the convention by the representatives from Port seemed to be in having their pictures taken by the news photographers. None of them appeared in any papers, however.

Twenty-eight hundred people attended the convention, representing 1105 papers. Besides the delegates from nearby places, some came from as far as North and South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Illinois, Ohio and Maine.

Everett Wilson: His Daze

Back Stage On The Big Night

Since tomorrow night will be the occasion for that great saga of the bovine industry, "The Milky Way", we wish to give a picture of what goes on behind the curtain while the orchestra is playing the overture. First of all, there are various people running around in all sorts of costumes ranging from frock coats to B. V. D.'s. Every once in awhile, there is a large crash followed by a piercing yell of pain. Someone has fallen over a prop and the language that is heard in the dark recesses of the stage is un-printable. By the time the curtain is raised, everyone in the cast is limping around. This effect is very useful when a play on an old soldiers' home is to be given.

Then, there are the frantic stage managers running around hustling everyone into his respective position. Of course, this often is embarrassing since the boys and girls sometimes change dressing rooms for purposes of convenience and many has been the frantic scream caused by an opening door.

The most feared man backstage is the make-up man, who takes great pleasure in slapping grease, powder, and all sorts of messes over the squirming faces of the unfortunate actors. The powder that is used in make-up should be known as "Parfum de Polecat". Statistically speaking, we estimate that three-fourths of all lipstick used goes down the throat rather than on the lips. This is very silly since there is really no sense to making up your throat because the doctor is the only one who ever gets a chance to look at it.

We had no idea when we wrote that little fashion note last week that it was going to cause so much comment from the femmes. Anyway, we still don't like the idea of women smoking pipes even if they do do it at Cornell. Now that Shirley Lawton has returned, we don't dare say anything about the opposite sex.

Stuff and Nonsense

By Rose Smiles

The mathematics teacher telephones,
"Operator, give me eleven times thirty-one minus six divided by five, add to it twice the original number, and make it snappy."

We Call:

Natalie the official carrier because she is a Porter.
Sarge the excellent scholar because he is so Wise.
Rose the laughing hatter because she has so many Smiles.

Dorothy a kid because she is Young.
George the ailing son because he's always Aitken.
Paul a bunch of grass because he comes from Fields.

Grace a walking stick because she is a Kehn.
Bob the well-dressed man because he always Fitz.
Joan the correct thing because she's always Wright.

Mr. Brewster Gives Talk

Mr. S. A. Brewster of the Remington Rand Company spoke in assembly today on "The Beginner in Business."

He emphasized the points of personal appearance, politeness, affability, pleasing character and an excellent vocabulary (used as an advantage for good speech). Mr. Brewster also suggested the need of understanding completely the important facts about the business world.

Bomer In Semi-Finals

Jacqueline Bomer, who won the oratorical contest here on March 7th, will enter the semi-finals at Mepham High School on the night of March 26.

The other schools participating will be Farmingdale, Hicksville, Mineola, Oyster Bay and Westbury.

The three winners of this will compete in the finals on April 3rd at Hicksville.

Looking Up

By Dale Bronson

Looking up we see a formation of odd looking planes; the air raid siren begins to wail as it does every night. Down come their cargoes of death and destruction. By now most people are used to this procedure and the night life continues, almost the same. In the far off fort we can see and hear the anti-aircraft guns at work. The conditions are not so bad, but a few casualties have taken place here and there. We hear the wail of another siren; it is not as distinct as the other siren, but it is very effective; it is that of the A. R. P. (AIR RAID PRECAUTION). We get word that four or five incendiary bombs have found their mark — a furniture warehouse, which now is burning with terrific intensity. More drones of airplane motors can be heard; the night patrol sent up to combat the enemy. There is a terrific battle raging overhead. Here comes a B. B. C. (BRITISH BROADCASTING CORPORATION) broadcast over the radio. The announcer says "Good evening, folks, this is the B. B. C. Our fighters and bombers have scored a great victory in Germany. The enemy planes came up in hordes but with no avail on our bombing squadrons. Fifty enemy ships were lost in the engagement. No fatal casualties have been reported as yet. Well, cheerio; this is the B. B. C. signing off."

Again we look up; it is morning, and everybody settles down to a normal life again.

Council Plans Tea Dance

The Council is planning to give several very informal Tea-dances in order to raise money. The first one will be given on Tuesday, April 1, from 3:30 to 6:30 in the cafeteria. The admission will be twenty-five cents per couple or stag. Music will be furnished by records, and refreshments will be on sale.

The Back Alley

By Roanne Hicks

Before I start talking about bowling, I want to use this opportunity to set Everett Wilson straight as to some of the feminine fashions. He said in "His Daze" (I'm not plugging the lad by the way) that the femmes haven't taken over pipe-smoking yet. You are wrong, my little one. Cornell girls started the fad, and if you will inquire, you will learn that the collegiate lasses have their own specialty designed pipes. Smaller, it's true, but pipes nevertheless. I think that the girls are beginning to admire comfort rather than worrying about falling hair-pins.

The girls are getting so dexterous at that hip-reducing sport of bowling, that I can't praise them enough. If their plans don't back-fire, they will bowl against the Friends' Academy team Monday 24th. The lineup isn't definite, but it will probably be Roanne Hicks, Myrt Webster, Ruth Bard, Helen Kelly, and Carolyn Hammett. Three newcomers have joined the girls' group and they are terrific (In bowling, too). Mildred Carpenter, (who has such a lazy, but oh, so accurate ball), Irene Gallagher, and Dorothy Huether.

After taking added precaution, and sneaking into the bowling alleys with a risk to my life on Wednesday before last, I was all prepared to witness the boys' match with Glen Cove, but alas, the Glen Covers didn't show up. They could not have been afraid, or could they? Anyhow, I determined to watch the twenty-nine Port boys bowl, and I would have too, but — alas, I was discovered and very much discouraged when I was rooted out of my hiding place. Fine reporter I'll make! ! !

... port profile ...

One famous Senior in our high school is Rose Smiles, who was born and brought up in our fair town. She is a member of the Clio, Traffic Squad, Choir, Port Weekly, Port Light, G. O., Circle, and Les Faux-Pas. Quite a list, n'est-ce pas? Besides her school activities, Rose plays the accordion and is a perpetual library-goer. In addition, she has worked in the school library for three years. She intends to attend Barnard College, if accepted. Besides all this, she participates in all girls' sports including field hockey, ping-pong, basketball, and tennis, in which she has received her Intra-mural rating. Here's hoping all this good work keeps up.

La Tertulia Arranges Pan American Day

At the last meeting of "La Tertulia" the officers and members of the club made definite plans for an assembly program to be given in honor of Pan-American Day. So far the program is going to consist of colored films on Spanish and Mexican dances, accompanied by music, a speaker, singing, and perhaps instrumental soloists.

The club for the past several days has been practicing the songs to be sung, which will be: Himno de Las Americas, Amapola, La Perla, and Ay, Ay, Ay.

Port Quintet Loses Intermural Teams In Nassau Finals

By Ted Parmalee

Height proved the deciding factor as Southside High School registered a 54-28 victory over Port Washington's five in the first round of the Nassau Basketball Tournament.

The game played at the Freeport gym marked the close of the Blue and White's 1940-41 season.

Southside, with four of its starting five well over six feet tall, put on a dazzling exhibition of passing and shooting. The outcome of the game was never in doubt. The winners held a 30-10 advantage at the half.

Southside tallied shortly after the opening whistle when Brandley dropped in a lay-up. "Skip" Caputo tied the score with a long set shot a minute later. From then on it was all Southside. Coulby Gunther, Southside's great six foot seven inch center, who had just left a sick bed, entered the game midway in the second quarter and performed brilliantly. Gunther scored several baskets and his adroit passing gave the crowd a big thrill.

Although Port tried gamely to rally and halt the Southside attack it was not until the third period that the Blue and White began to click. Then with "Cosmo" Morrison and Andy Jessen flipping in several baskets, Port rallied and outscored the Rockville Center lads. At the end of the third quarter Southside led 41-25.

Gunther and Brandley again found the range in the last quarter and Southside increased its lead. So close was the winner's guarding that Port needed only three points to tie during the final period. Both teams substituted freely during the game and everyone on the Port Washington bench played at least a minute.

"Cosmo" Morrison and Andy Jessen, both of whom were playing their last game for Port, scored 10 and 7 points respectively. Gunther was outstanding for Southside and easily showed the reason why he rates as one of the greatest players on the South Shore.
