

Port Five To Play Hicksville Tonight

Your G. O. Rights

Finally we have a solution to one of the biggest problems in the school. This is the problem of student voice in the Student Council. Students as well as teachers have told us in the Council that we try to run the school. In the past as well as the future these people are those who are too lazy to learn their rights. Your G. O. officers are and should be willing to accept criticism. However those who moan and groan will get the results they deserve — nothing. Every person has a voice in the Student Council, if he knows how to use it:

1. Anyone can be and votes for his Student Council Member.
 2. Any 25 students may petition for an open meeting.
 3. Any one student can petition matters to be brought up in Council meetings.
 4. Any qualified person can run for a G. O. office through a petition or by being nominated by the Nominating Committee.
- These are only your important rights. Use them all.

We are sure that everyone knows this attractive blonde, who has her "teeth" in practically every activity in school. Marjorie Peterson, a girl of many talents, is especially interested in sports and art work. She is now president of the G.A.A., after being volleyball manager last year. She was also captain of the girl's varsity hockey team this year which has had a very successful year.

Marge has achieved many honors in the field of art. Just recently, she won second prize for an oil painting entered in a con-

Paris Letter Received from Veep

November 12, 1950

Dear Mrs. Johnson:

We've been here in Paris just one month and one day today, but it seems as though it were years. So much has happened that I don't know where to begin. When we first came into town, it was cold and dark, and we had no place to stay. We called one hotel after another and finally ended up in a little flea trap down near Place Pigalle.

We are now located in a very nice residential section called Neuilly, just outside of Paris. It is a very short ride on the Metro (Paris' subway system) to all the places of interest like the Champs-Elysees, the Arc of Triumph, the Louvre, the Eiffel Tower, or any of Paris' famous race tracks like Longchamps or Auteil (where I am going in several minutes). In the States I had never been to a race track, but that was one of the first things I did upon arriving in town. Now I spend about one day a week at the track, and I place very small bets—about 50 francs a race, which is 18 cents in American money. I have yet to lose, and I average about a dollar and a half profit a day.

When I came here, I thought that I could pick up French very rapidly, as that would be all that was spoken. However, on the contrary, I hardly ever get a chance to use my meager—and I mean meager—supply of French. In the morning I get up at seven, eat, and get off to the American school here in Paris. It's not so hot when you compare it to a place like Port, but you get used to all the differences in time. After school I either play basketball or football with some American kids, or else go down to the Embassy on Place Concord, right near the Royal Palace which is the popular meeting place of all American students in Paris. Then I go home where I do a little homework and hit the sack. As you can see, I speak hardly any French, except in class, all day.

Yesterday was Armistice Day, and the French really celebrate in a big way. They had a parade miles long, marching up the street under the Arch of Triumph. American, French and British jets were swooping up and down that broad avenue also. The French have really been hit hard by the war, and you could see it in their faces. Yesterday was their day, and they really went wild from dawn to dark.

The trip over on the "Liberte" was pure luxury, and loads of fun. I couldn't imagine doing anything that would have been so much fun—already I am counting the days until we can take the return trip.

For the first few days I was homesick, but I finally got over that when I met some of the kids in school and life began to get really interesting again. Now, everything is going smoothly and I still have plenty of time to visit the many places of interest and excitement in this great city.

Although this trip is a lot of fun, I am looking forward to the day next year when I can come back to Port.

Sincerely,
MIKE McGRADY.

First Basketball Game Of Year With Hicksville To Be Hard

Tonight at 7:30 will see the Blue and White basketball squad open its 1950-51 season in the high school gymnasium. The initial game is with a quintet of athletes from Hicksville High School. As the Port squad was beaten last year by the Hicksville boys, Port will be out to gain revenge. This should be a thrilling game although it is not a league contest.

Port has played Hicksville eight times intermittently since 1927. Port has won twice and Hicksville the other six times. The scores of the games are as follows:

	Port	Hicksville
1927-28	29	17
1932-33	17	19
1933-34	20	23
1934-35	21	31
1935-36	31	25
1936-37	23	35
1937-38	24	22
1949-50	33	43

Several of last year's men are Otis, White, Dumpson, Cutler, MacNamara, Micklin, Eckhart, Wing and Domboski.

The scrap tonight will probably determine the general picture of the team this year, so let's get to the game and support the team.

- Dec. 1—Basketball game with Hicksville.
- Jay-Vee at 7:30
- Varsity at 9:15
- Dec. 5—Basketball game at Roslyn, 4:00 P.M.
- Dec. 8—Basketball game at Sea Cliff, 7:30
- Dec. 15—Basketball at Farmingdale, 7:30
- Dec. 16—G. O. Christmas Dance

Port Weekly Announces Story Contest Prizes

Here's your big chance if you like to write and maybe make a little money doing it. All you have to do is write a short story of less than 1000 words to enter the Port Weekly Short Story Contest. The judges will be Mr. MacIntosh, Mr. Ehre, and Mr. Farson, who will award the prizes: 1st prize $10, 2nd prize $5, and 3rd prize $3. The top winner will have his picture and story in the paper. The other winners will have their stories published only. Don't forget, get those stories in to Mr. Farson in room 107 by January 12.

Red Cross Worthy of Your Support

An organization that helps the welfare of the people is worthy of our full support. The most direct means in which we can support this worthy cause is by donating our contributions. It is upto every individual to see that the Junior Red Cross continues its fine work and that its sevicees are extended beyond its present boundaries.

In periods of peace the organization assists in cases of physical emergency and in the reeducation of Americans. Its aim is to aid the needy.

During periods of war the need of this type of work increases. The welfare of the men who are fighting for Democracy is their main consideration. They aid not only the physically ill, but the mentally and morally as well. When we neglect to show our consideration for our boys The Junior Red Cross is ready to come to their aid. It strives to make our boys at home as much as possible by constantly giving them its attention and advice.

When the Red Cross requires help in their many activities the Junior Red Cross is called on to assist its mother organization. When storage space is needed for supplies or when knitted garments of various types are demanded The Junior Red Cross is at hand.

Perhaps the most important aid it renders is by helping our service men morally. Two methods have proved successful; first the tour boys receive daily word from friends at home, and the second is in the field of entertainment. Musical, Dramatic, as well as educational programs help keep our soldiers in good spirit.

Without our support the cause of which our boys are fighting will be hopeless. It is we who must give all the aid we can possibly so that our men will win the victory for happiness and freedom in the shortest time possible.

We should, therefore, take it upon ourselves to contribute and attain a 100% goal in the Junior Red Cross.

THE CAFETERIA SERVES YOU

Our school cafeteria is here to alloy hunger pangs, but in addition it offers many opportunities to learn and to apply learning. One of the greatest of these is courtesy. Another is the ability to respect others rights and comforts. Most people enjoy neat and orderly surroundings while eating. Here we can help to establish such surroundings by attention to our eating habits and neatness at the table.

Your Cafeteria can't function properly without certain regulations and a plan to execute them. When you are asked to do or not to do things in order to aid the plan, it means a better Cafeteria to serve you if you cooperate.

Clublicity

CELERITY

On Wednesday, November 15, some 24 girls were formerly initiated into Celerity. These girls are Jane Penny, Phyllis Lanes, Margie Hazard, Priscilla Spaulding, Anne Von Boetticher, Barbara Sozzi, Barbara Lynch, Myrna Horowitz, Lee Ann McGrath, Nancy Crowl, Janet Kuhl, Sally Erscoe, Janet Ackerly, Sally Innes, Nancy McDonough, Sandra Madeheim, Eloise Hyde, Elaine Nielsen, Lenore Jacoby, Deane Land, Nina Stephanson, Lena Petretta, Santina Fromja and Christine Logan.

The usual hilarious initiations were on Tuesday and Wednesday of that week. The girls had to go without lipstick and had to wear knee length stockings and skirts above their knees. They also had to carry their books in a shopping bag. A prize was given to the initiate, advertising in the most ingenious way, that she was joining Celerity. The winner was Phyllis Lanes, who received a rhinestone bracelet.

Celerity is now dressing dolls for the welfare at Christmas time. They are also making baskets of food to distribute to the needy families in Port Washington.

LA TERTULIA

The newly formed Spanish Club had its first meeting on November 20. As there are no officers except a treasurer, program chairmen are in charge.

Priscilla Spaulding and Joan Lamble led the group in a meeting conducted entirely in Spanish. After the meeting some Spanish games were played.

CLIO

On November 21, Clio held its third meeting of the year, with Herman Jacobs and Dick Littlejohn as program chairmen. Only a little business was discussed, for most of the meeting was devoted to a talk by Paul D. Shreiber, superintendent of the Port Washington Schools. The main purpose of the talk was to give the audience a better understanding of the problems and finances involved in the running of our school system.

The size and growth of the school system as well as the analysis of the immense amount of money needed to run it, proved to be a list of both interesting and surprising figures. How the state aid to a school district is determined, was recommended as a subject to be undertaken in 12th year history, along with other facts about our school, which the average student knows little about. All in all, the Clio members learned that there is a lot more to a school than readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic.

QUESTION: Do you think we should have a youth center in Port?

SYLVIA TROIANO. If there were some kids who were willing to work for it, it would be swell.

KARIN SANDBLOOM. I think it is a wonderful idea. It's what we've needed for a long time.

AL LA PERA. Yes, it s a terrific idea. It will keep some out of trouble.

JOSH. They need one.

DOC EHRE. We need one for old folks to enjoy themselves.

CONNIE SOZZI. A tremendous idea.

SANDRA INGRAM. It's a neat idea and if we had one a lot less parties would be crashed.

MARYLOU ROPER. Yes, it would make a friendlier student body.

Thanksgiving. Some of the couples were Karin Sandblom and Bob Heller, Lee Ann McGrath and Jack Savidge Moe and Margie Dickinson, Joyce Miller and Wally Hyde, Joan Weber and a friend.

Barbara Lynch and Neil O'Brien had a terrific time in New York Friday nite. Seems they went with a whole bunch of Nil's friends.

Judy Neely went down to Duke for the weekend to visit her brother.

FLASH! Big hurricane hit Janis McCormick's house. Storm party was given. At the party were Janie and Don James, Jean Whyte and Bob Echaradt, Angie and Mike McCormick, Fay Spratt, and Dwight Otis, Karin Brinkman and Brian Mulligan, Marg Peterson and John Wing, Joan Crittenden and Pete Newkirk. Guess every one felt the bad storm which struck Port and surrounding area. Many kids were out looking at the break-age.

Well that's all there is.

After having taught school in Jamaica High and Adelphi College, Mr. Schoenborn came to this school 14 years ago to teach German and English. He was born in Brooklyn, attending both Brooklyn College and N. Y. U.

Mr. Schoenborn

He is un-married and now resides with his family in Valley Stream. In school, Mr. Schoenborn is one of our well-liked teachers. He is faculty-advisor to the Theater Group and is an aid to all the other English organizations. In addition, he is very proud of his brother who just recently obtained a $3,000 scholarship to a dental school. He has a claim to glory in the fact that he went to school with Alfred Drake.

Many of Mr. Schoenborn's likes are his pet Cocker Spaniel, Skippy, chocolate ice cream, the color blue, good books and English compositions.

To Mr. Schoenborn we wish to offer our thanks for being our "Faculty of the Week."

Port's cross country team was strictly a Sophomore affair this year. They did quite well considering that they were competing against boys two-years older than they. They competed in five meets including the North Shore and Long Island meets.

The ace on our team was Marty Seddon, finishing first for Port three times and second, twice. John Olley and Doug Murray coming under the tape first once each.

Our first meet was triangular at Bethpage where both Hicksville and Roslyn beat Port.

Port took the bacon at Garden City beating Mineola in the only dual meet of the season.

At Roslyn, Port took third this time, finishing behind Roslyn and Valley Stream and beating Mineola again.

In the North Shore meet at Bethpage, nine teams competed. Port had the middle spot this time, beating four and losing to four.

Seventeen teams beat Port around the two and a half mile course in the Long Island meet at Bethpage. There were 24 teams competing but only two North Shore teams beat Port.

We expect our team to do much better next year and because of their extra year of experience, they will be better able to take on Juniors and Seniors.

By Nancy McDonough, Fay Spratt

The new J. V. cheerleaders were chosen last Wednesday afternoon. The judges were Miss Fohrenbach, Mr. Seeber, Mr. Brown, Karin Sandblom and Bob Eckardt. The lucky girls are Joyce Weber, captain; Lee Ann McGrath, Dot Breska, Barbara Wheeler, Marilyn Moore, Pat Haron, Sally Enscoe, Nancy McDonough, Fay Spratt and Eleanor McPherson. Their first appearance will be at the J. V. basketball game tonight, so everyone get out and cheer with them!

The volleyball groups, Senior, Junior and Sophomore, have been posted on Miss Fohrenbach's bulletin board. If anyone has any doubt about whose team she is on, she should consult the board. There are only three meetings of the volleyball club, so it shouldn't be hard for everyone to have a perfect attendance record. Also, be sure to report to one of your co-captains before the start of your games so she can mark you present.

Usually only three volleyball teams are chosen, Soph, Junior and Senior, but this year a special all-star varsity will be chosen from the class teams to go to a high school playday at New York University Saturday, December 9.

Basketball sign-ups are December 18, 19 and 20. All girls interested in basketball be sure to sign up!

Players from Port at Hockey Tourney

Several weeks ago, on November 12 and 13, there were a number of hockey games played at Wellesley College, Massachusetts. It was the annual tournament of the Northeast Section of the United States Field Hockey Association. Representing the Long Island Section was a team composed of, among others, Joan Hohenrath, Elsie Imperial, Rosemary D'Agostino, Miss Fohrenbach, Mrs. Helen Allen, who referees many of our girls' hockey games, and Miss Mary Oliva, who is well-known to our girl basketball players. Vinnie D'Agostino played goalie on the reserve team.

Each team at the tournament played three games, two on Saturday and one on Sunday. The two teams that came out top were the Long Island team and the Boston team, who each won all three of their games. Our Long Island team did very well, walloping New Haven 8-0, Mohawk Section 9-1, and Greenwich, Connecticut 5-2.

During these rugged games there was a selection committee watching. This committee, on which there were many former All-American hockey players, chose the players who were to go to the National Tournament. We are proud to announce that from the many players considered, Miss Fohrenbach and Mrs. Allen were chosen to be on the Reserve

Team, which is the equivalent of a National J. V. team. Also, Elsie Imperial and Joan Hohenrath earned honorabel mention, and they acted as substitutes at the National Tournament on Thanksgiving weekend.

At the National Tournament our Reserve team did very well, considering the fact that it snowed nearly the whole time. On Thanksgiving day, it beat the reserve Middle Atlantic Section 4-1, Elsie Imperial making one goal, and Mrs. Allen making the remaining three. Friday it lost to the Philadelphia team 2-1, and Mrs. Allen again was the high scorer (and only) in the game. On Saturday our team came back to beat the reserve South East Section 4-1, Mrs. Allen making two of the goals.

The only unbeaten team at the finish was Philadelphia, which therefore won the tournament, and most of the players chosen were from the Philadelphia team.
