PRICE TEN CENTS

New High School To Open Nov. '52

For those of you who are not aware of it, the gym is really in use and has been in full operation since December 15. Plans are now being laid for the formal opening of the K-3 schools that are being built for the South Salem, Manhasset Bay and Manorhaven areas. The ceremony opening the K-3's will take place right after the Christmas Holidays. In each of the schools there is a kindergarden, classrooms for the first, second, and third grades, and one all purpose room. These schools are right up to date and you can be sure that your younger brothers and sisters will have all the advantages of a modern education. Work on the new high school behind the baseball grandstand is progressing according to schedule and the construction company assures us that the high school will be ready for opening in November of 1952.

Student Of Week

Pat Haron

Pat does not have to be introduced to most of the students in Port High, as almost everyone knows this popular senior girl.

As captain of the varsity cheerleaders she manages a group of ten girls. Pat arranges partices twice a week where the cheers are practiced and corrected. Last year she was a member of the junior varsity cheering squad. During the past three years she has participated in many sports. She excels in hockey, tumbling, and modern dance.

Pat is an honor student, also active in other phases of school life. Among the other organizations to which she belongs are Clio, the Senior Honor Study Hall, and the tumbling club. She is secretary-treasurer of Retort. Pat is 203's representative to the student council. An active member of choir since her sophomore year she is now practicing for the coming "Mikado." In her sophomore year she was the class treasurer.

When this all round good student graduates she hopes to major in medical technology at the University of Vermont.

Kneeling: Sam Markle, Eddie Musselwhite, J. R. Laucella, Al Epaminode, Phil DeElia and Bill Jankowski.

Band To Play At Philadelphia

The Port Washington High School Band has been invited to play at the Music Educators' National Conference at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania on March 22. The Band will play a short program before the Judication Clinic. This is a special honor for the Band as there will be no other band or orchestra playing there at that time. The Band received its invitation to the conference, through Mr. Christopher, from Miss Marguerite Hood of the University of Michigan faculty. Miss Hood is president of The Music Educators' National Conference.

The audience at the time The Band plays at Philadelphia will be a very unusual one for a band concert, in it will be every leading band director in the United States who is attending the conference and the Judication Clinic's Special Session.

Open House Held

At the open house on November 28 a committee of the Student Council composed of Marge Hazard Myrna Horowitz, Jimmy Roberts, Preston Pumphrey, Pat Haron, Pete Mertz, Dorin Oltarsh, Marile Marzo and Marge Ingley gave short speeches about the G. O. and various activities around the school. After this the parents proceeded to follow the Wednesday schedule of their children. The periods were of 10 minutes each. After "school" the parents were served refreshments in the cafeteria through the courtesy of the High School Men's Association.

Wild Socks In Order At Hop

December 15 is a date everyone ought to remember. Why? It's the date of the G. O. Christmas Dance. The Dance is a sock hop and sweaters, skirts, and your wildest pair of socks are in order.

There will be a prize given to the wearer of the wildest pair of socks at the dance. The decoration, entertainment, and refreshment committees are all hard at work and they promise that the dance will be stupendous. The Leuis Anesta three-piece dance orchestra will supply the music, and from what we hear, they are terrific. The prices for the dance are as follows: couples that have at least one G. O. between them will pay $1.25, couples without G. O.'s will be charged $1.75. The dance will start at 8:30 P. M. and last until 12:30 P.M.

Announces $1,000 Patriotic Contest

WIN an all expense paid trip to Washington, D. C., over 1,000 dollars in cash awards, plus dozens of other valuable prizes. Enter the letter-writing contest sponsored by the Sheaffer Pen Company on the subject, "How Can I Expand Opportunities In America". All the members of Port Washington High School are eligible to enter this contest. There are many other prizes available along with the trip to Washington including a second prize of $175; third prize, $100; 25 fourth prizes, $25; plus fifty honorable mention prizes of Scheaffer Deluxe Model Fountain Pens.

All the entries must be in by January 9, 1952 and sent to Craig Scheaffer, President; W. A. Scheaffer Pen Company; Box 340; Grand Central Station; New York, New York. These letters will be judged on organization and neatness as well as content. The winners will be announced in the February 27, 1952 issue of the Senior Scholastic magazine.

Men's Association Banquet Success

Swing your partners! Skip-to-my-lou! This was the call that was heard round the Candlelight Restaurant last Friday Night, November 30. This occasion marked the dinner of the Port Washington High School Men's Association for the faculty of the high school. If comments by the teachers and various parents that attended the dinner express the views of the entire assembly, the event was a "whopping" success.

The band for the dinner was Stan Galowin's "Hayseeds" who led the group in round and square dancing. For all those who did not know how to square dance, his directions were very explicit and his calling was expert so that no one had any trouble at all learning the dancing. In addition to this, the faculty surprised everyone with their hidden talents. Doc Ehre led the group in singing played the violin to the accompaniment of the band. Mr. Reppeteux sang two selections in a stirring baritone. Mr. and Mrs. Begeneau danced a group of South American dances. Mr. Begeneau is a dancing instructor at Queens College. Games and other social events rounded out the evening into a huge success.

By Homer Schlutz

Let us sprinkle snow from the chimney and yodel to the reindeer perched high on the hill
Grey December, grey December!
Tears slip from the peach-blossoms and blood trickles down the back of his neck.
Janet roars and screams and Peter chafes at the bit.
Clack, clack, clack.
The old horse-drawn buggies clatter through Washington Square
And ladies in crinoline giggle.
Let us watch the animals making ready for the winter and help the birds peck holes in the math teacher.
Crunch! Crunch! Crunch!
Drink all the alcoholic beverages you can find!
Let's get into the holiday spirit!
Take the children to Macy's and let them see santa!
Tighten your belt and pull up your socks!
Put dynamite in Langdon Cutright's gaping mouth!
Then give him a lighted cigarette—
I wonder what will happen.
Christmas and December cheer!
I love everybody!
Someone find me a plug of tobacco and let me dance, dance, dance!
I love Christmas! Blue December! Fluttering snowflakes!
And anti-freeze.

New Books

The library has acquired a great variety of new books designed for all types of readers. For the reader who despises small print, the book for him is "Of Courage Undaunted", a book of the explorations of Lewis and Clark. Practically every page has large, distinctive illustrations explaining their adventures. This book may be read for eighth history or English non-fiction.

In contrast, the book for the reader interested in politics and actual reading is "The Truman Merry-Go-Round." It is a book of current happenings and discusses politics in a witty and interesting fashion.

The strictly novel reader will enjoy the exciting tale of the Canadian Mounties, "Royal Red", the dramatic and impelling story of a colt belonging to a Mounty chief.

Another book that can again be read for history or English non-fiction is "The Sword and the Compass" a story of John Smith. There is much more of a story to his adventures as is explained in this book.

The best suggestion for good literature is to read the new books coming in each week.

Guidance Gatherings

On November 29 and 30, Mrs. Webster and Mr. Scherer went to the New York State Guidance Workshop at Hofstra College. A report was made on Post-Secondary School Education of Long Island High School Graduates. A study has been made on this subject for the past year by a committee on which Mrs. Webster served in the capacity of guidance consultant.

Theater Group

At the last meeting of the theatre group, the members decided to attend a performance of the hit play, "The Moon Is Blue" starring Celeste Holm. Jean McGregor, the corresponding secretary of the club, was not able to secure any tickets for the decided date, so the excursion will be cancelled. In the future, however, the Theatre Group hopes to see such excellent productions as "South Pacific" starring Roger Rico and Martha Wright, "Saint Joan" the popular revival of George Bernard Shaw's great play starring Uta Hagen, and "The King and I", the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical with Gertrude Lawrence, Dorothy Sarnoff, and Yul Brynner.

Commercial Club

Commercial club held initiations last week. Its new members are Nancy Weber and Jenny Frommija. At the meeting they organized plans for their annual canned goods drive for the benefit of the Village Welfare.

Mac Leaves

Last Wednesday, Cameron Mac Donald left for New Zealand. He and his mother will stay there for about two years, living with some relatives. He will attend school and graduate there, spending his spare time and vacations traveling around the country. Before leaving for New Zealand they will spend a few days at New Orleans from where they will sail.

Things & Stuff

You ignorant greenhorns who read (?) this column have no idea of the work and mental anguish that go into it. You don't appreciate the way I wrack my brains for ideas, I blister my delicate fingers pounding my brainchild out on a cantankerous typewriter and the way that I plead with our noble editors to put it in the paper and not in the wastebasket. So I will tell you about the trials and tribulations involved in bringing a column into the world.

I put a sheet of paper into the typewriter (Mangling several fingers in the process) and I stare at it for five minutes. Then I get up and wander around the room looking for inspiration. This inspiration is very elusive. Inspiration flies around the room, laughing at me because I can't catch it. Finally I beat it down on the floor and take possession of it by kicking it in the head. Now that the inspiration problem is settled, I return to my typewriter and begin to write.

I don't have much trouble writing the work of art. My problem is in getting it in the paper. When I submit it to Janet Kuhl, she smiles sweetly and says, "No, dear, I don't think that will be quite what we want." Undaunted, I refer it to Press on the Pump. He doesn't say anything. He just groans. Finally through several hours of plaintive pleading, the hard-hearted journalists relent and agree to put my column in the next edition of the Port Weekly. This isn't any compliment to me; it is just that there happens to be a gaping hole in the middle of page three, and they might as well fill it up with my nonsense as not.

Yes, writing this column is a hard and unrewarding job. But I think the worst blow comes when some character whom I have never even seen before comes up to me and bellows, "Hey you! Yer name is on the masthead of the school paper! Don't you write anything for it?" To all young sophomores who are considering joining the staff of the Port Weekly, I say, "Fine. Go ahead. You'll like it. Only don't let anyone talk you into writing a column."

Last weekend was very uneventful and we're sorry to say that there's not much news to report this week.

Friday night V-Ann Klump entertained a few cackling hens, the gals were Dot, Cookie, Judy, Ann L, and Dodie.

Bob Price, and Cris and Pete dropped in to pay Dee Dee a visit on Friday night too. Cris and Dee Dee will never walk into a dark room without getting a few more gray hairs after that ghost story that Bob told them.

Suzy Blair also was hostess to some hens Friday night. Seen there were Lee Ann McGrath, Dot Breska, Marge Hazard, Sallie Robertsen and Sue Tiley.

Saturday night the movies did a booming business. Some of the kids upstairs and down were Barbara and Stretch (glad to see you home for good, Stretch) Joy Burroughs and Randi Dietz, Martha Sykes and Leonard Utz, Marnie and Brother, Margot Lenke and Lou Dellavechia, Connie and George, Myrna Horwitz and Bob Intermesoli, and Pat Haron and Ed Musselwhite.

There were also lots of stag Soph girls there the same night.

Dave Palmer, Linda Schneeloch and Tom Christie paid a little visit to Joan Brooks to view Joan's television?

Judy Neely had a nice, quiet hen party in her soundproof living room Saturday night. The quiet (?) hens were Dot Tiemann, Cris, Dee Dee, Ann L. and Cookie. They found out later from some eavesdroppers that the living room was not quite as soundproof as they thought it was. Dee Dee will learn to modulate her voice very soon!

Flash! we have another steady couple. The lucky kids are Jean MacGregor and Pete Paulding. Boy, this certainly is the going steady season.

Jane Litchfield entertained Langdon, Ann Fitzgerald and Mel Porter, and Jim Flemings and Sue Brownlee at a small party Saturday night.

Pete Paulding had the cast of the "Mikado" over at his house for a rehearsal. There probably wasn't much singing done.

Seen at the Saturday night movies were Barbara Lynch and Jerry Moore, and Janet Ackerly and Tom Robb.

Lee Ann McGrath, Joyce Weber, Nancy McDonough, Sallie Robertson Marge Hazard and Dot Breska went over to Hofstra College Saturday to a convention of Modern Dance teachers. They got lessons in technique, rythm, etc. from experts in the field of Modern Dance. They had a wonderful and very profitable time and the new ideas that they got will probably be used in our Modern Dance Recital in the Spring.

Well, that's just about all for now. We hope to have more for you next week. Don't forget the first basketball game tonight at Hicksville. We'll see you all there.

Wake Up Folks

Overheard on the Long Island Rail Road. A lady was speaking to her companion about one of her friends. "The way their boy treats their dog is terrible. He beats the poor animal on the nose so hard that I am afraid that he will kill it. Why, if our son Raymond did it to our dog I would get rid of the dog."

This is almost as absurd as the people who don't want to buy television sets because they are afraid that their children would not do their homework.

These parents are the same people who just can't understand what the younger generation is coming to. These mothers and fathers who can't even discipline their own children are one of the causes of the unruliness of the younger generation.

Volleyball is the sport in season at the present. The first practices were held a week from yesterday and have continued on Tuesday and Thursday of this week. This Tuesday the teams will be chosen by manager, Pat McCormack, and Miss F. We realize that the volleyball season is extremely short this year, but due to the delay in the completion of the gym, we were unable to begin any earlier. This year, as always, three class teams will be chosen, along with an all star team. Since volleyball is the most popular of all sports, it is impossible to pick girls for the J. V. and Varsity team.

The advanced tumblers worked out for the first time last Thursday. Next week all the groups will be able to tumble because the tumbling room should be completed by then. This year for the color war, Pat Cooper, tumbling manager, has decided only twelve girls will be chosen for each team for the tumbling part in the color war, instead of the whole advanced tumbling group. As usual, there will be specialties which the girls have already been practicing for tryouts.

The new J. V. Cheerleaders will be out on the basketball courts cheering for the first time tonight, so let's all get out there and cheer with them.

Reviews

The Caine Mutiny—Wouk

A fine book about a young man who grows up quick during the war, it is easy to see why it has been at the top of the best-seller list so long. It is about a likeable young fellow named Willie Keith who is a son of a wealthy family. He falls in love with a girl who has less than no "back-ground". At the time he meets her he seems to think this makes a difference and has other queer ideas which he loses after a stretch in the navy. Otherwise he is quite pleasant, although somewhat naive. He gets into an amazing amount of trouble in Annapolis and gets involved in a mutiny on the first ship he boards. It all ends satisfactorily, however, is goes together to make an engrossing, highly amusing novel which is well worth reading.

Kon-Tiki—Heyerdahl

This book is about one of the great adventures of our time. It is about how six men sailed a distance of 4,300 nautical miles in a native raft to help prove a theory they held. The theory they held was that the Polynesian Island group had at one time been settled by a white-skinned people from Peru Heyerdahl, the leader of this expedition got the theory from two things; the co-inciding of a Peruvian legend and a Poylnesian legend; and the similarity of some Peruvian and Polynesian statues. To find out all the rest of it there is only one thing to do, that is to read this book about a voyage that completely disproved many widely held views about the settlers of the Polynesian Islands and the Pacific Ocean.

FINIS

The finishing touches were put on the fall sports last Friday when sixty-five boys received their letters in tennis, J. V., and varsity football.

Mr. Brown handed Brady, Brokaw, Brown, Chapman Comb, Graseck, Girardin, Hobbins, Levine, Parker, Sloane and Ward their letters for a job well done. The tennis team finished second in the league with eight wins, three losses and one tie.

Mertz

Next, J. V. football letters were given to Ballard, Borkowski, Bowman, Chester, Christie, Cozza, DeMeo, Dempshick, Epominode, Facicone, Hall, Hess, Mauro, Mertz, Nuzzolese, Palmer, Patterson, Pupa, Santiccioli, Seddon, Stag, Thompson, Utz, Wile, Wiles, Zahm, and Price, mgr. Mr. Horton's crew ended the season with a two and three record, but his warriors really gave their all. They did manage to outscore the opposition on the year by nine points.

Finally, Adami, Bialobrzkeski, Booker, Bowman, Caperella, Cichanowski, Cosolito, De Meo, Epominode, Jackson, Johnson, Lanciki, Lipsett, Musselwhite, Roberts, Saccareccia, Sadlo, Seifts, and Intermesoli, mgr. received their varsity football letter from Coach Costello. Port's varsity compiled five victories and two losses, losing only to Manhasset and Great Neck.

OPENER

Tonight Port takes on Hicksville. The men from out the Island will probably go into the game as favorites. Last year Port was licked in the opener 43-75 by virtually the same team; Port has been hurt by graduation and are not as strong as last year. Just as last year this game is the first of four warm up games. The league games that count in the standings don't start until January. For those who aren't too familiar with the basket ball set up, we'll try to explain it. Port is a member of the Western division of the North Shore league. There are five other teams in the division Mineola, Manhasset, Glen Cove, Garden City, and Great Neck. Each team plays two games with each other team, one home and one away. The eventual winner of the Western division (1951, Port) plays the winner of the Eastern division (1951, Oyster Bay). The victor of that plays the winner of the South Shore playoff. Last year Oyster Bay won the Nassau title. As of now Port's varsity is made up of Laucella, Jackson, Musselwhite, D'Elia, Cichanowski, Epaminonde, Jankowski, Walters, Booker, Adami, Markle and Palawsky. Coach Costello is going to try to use a two platoon system to make up for his lack of height.

The J. V. will also open Friday against Hicksville. Last year Mr. Hortons' gang won their first game 51-47. This year he's got an all sophomore squad except for one freshman. Hall, Fleming, Dumpson, Dempshick, Santaccoli, Boehme, Wiles, Parker, Horowitz, Hosa, Utz and Spaulding make up the J. V. squad.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Games start at 7:30 except where noted:

- Friday Dec. 7, Hicksville at Hicksville.
- Tuesday Dec. 11, Roslyn at Roslyn—4:00 P. M.
- Friday Dec. 14, Sea Cliff at Port.
