PRICE TEN CENTS

Music Competition To Be May 9-10

On Friday, May 9 and Saturday, May 10 the annual New York State School Music Association competition festival will be held at Bayshore High School. Port Washington school music organizations have traditionally participated in NYSSMA competition festivals. The first group of Port Washington students to participate in competition attended the 1933 competition festival, making this the twentieth year Port Washington schools have taken part in competition.

This year the Port Washington High School Band is competing in Grade VI for the fourth time. Grade VI is the hardest grade music you can compete in. The Band will play at 11:30 A. M., Saturday. The All-School Orchestra is competing in Grade IV this year and will play at 2:30 P. M., Saturday.

There are about 85 students from Port Washington who will participate in solo and ensemble competitions on either Friday or Saturday. This number includes students in Senior High, Junior High, and elementary schools. There are also about 40 students who will be at competition to play with the Band or Orchestra, but who are not participating in solo or ensemble competitions.

Randi Sontum To Be 'Miss Hospital'

Port Washington High School can at last boast its choice for this year's "Miss North Shore Hospital", Randi Sontum. Randi defeated Joan Marino in second place, and Irene Rice in third. As Port's Miss Hospital, Randi will attend North Shore Hospital Carnival, May 11.

The new Miss Hospital was chosen in the homeroom elections held last Friday. The candidates were Randi Sontum, Joyec Burroughs, Dorin Oltarsh, Annabelle Sloane, Diana Cornwall, Barbara Pollock, Irene Rice, Dot Tieman, Ann Leonard, Joan Marino and Carolyn Crisafulli. They were voted on for four things; looks, school activity, outside activity, and a good scholastic standing.

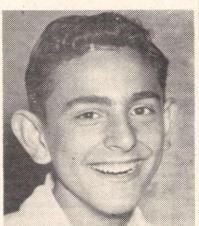

The new Miss Hospital will be crowned on May 11, at the North Shore Hospital Carnival which will be held at the Whitney Estate, located near the hospital ground site. There will also be a horse and dog show at the carnival

This is the third year for the Miss Hospital contest. The first Miss Hospital was Sally Enscoe and last year's Lee Ann McGrath.

Student Of Week

"Could I have your attention, please? I'd like very much to announce that your next year's vice-president is Bob Price."

This short statement acknowledged that Bob Price had won one of the most responsible jobs in Port Washington High School. In this capacity, he will not only act as president when Jay Greene is absent, but he will also be in charge of all the assemblies. This is a big job.

Pictures by Fearon

Bob is certainly well-qualified for this office. He has been president of his homeroom for two years consecutively. Last year he was 110's carnival chairman, taking charge of the now-famous concession, "The House of Horrors". Although he has not done much actively in the sports world, he proved his interest by acting as manager of this year's football team.

This junior is an actor of no small talents. He had the lead in "Make Room for Rodney", the (Continued on page 4)

208 Leads Rooms In Chance Sales

From the latest report only 114 chance books have been sold for the Spring Carnival. Homeroom 208 is in the lead with 42%; next is 209. Many more must be sold if a sizeable profit is to be made this year. The quota for each person is the selling of at least two chance books.

However at the start of this week, vigorous campaigning took place which will be carried on until the last day before the Carnival. Each homeroom which reaches the quota of 100% will be let out at noon to work on their booth and prizes will be given at different intervals for homerooms having the highest percentages.

On May 28 the photography club is conducting a photo contest. It is for members of the club only and the subject is optional. In their last meeting the members chose Mr. Dimmick, their faculty advisor, as judge of all the entries. The prints or enlargements will be judged on interest, composition, and slightly on print quality. This last will not count too heavily as those who don't develope their own prints cannot be responsible for their quality. The winner of the contest will receive two exposure calculators for both indoor and outdoor use and also a pamphlet put out by Kodak on "How to Get Better Composition."

The photography club's meeting on April 30 will be with the opaque projector projecting pictures and text on how to get better composition.

On May 14 there will be a special program with slides and a lecture on the kind of picture people like.

At both these meetings any people not in the club are welcome to attend if they are interested.

Port Students To Attend Conference

Next Thursday, May 8, five people from Port Washington High School will attend a conference at Columbia University. The conference is sponsored by the Metropolitan School Study Council. Representatives from all the schools in the metropolitan area will be represented there.

The conference is designed by youth for youth. In order to better understand the problems of teen-agers and to be able to cring possible solutions to these problems back to the different schools, the council has set up an agenda of eight different topics to be discussed in small groups at the meeting. These topics are as follows:

I. Cliques — are cliques running your school?

II. School Spirit — Does your school have it?

III. Academic vs. Vocational Education — How do you judge a person?

IV. Cheating — To cheat or not to cheat, that is the question?
V. Teen-age Parent Relation-

As the square-dancing students at the President's Ball waited expectantly, the announcements came over the P.A. system, one "Leonard Utz - treasby one. "Leonard Utz — treas-urer." "Joan Brooks—secretary." "Bob Price-vice-president." And then the news that everyone had been waiting for-the winner of the presidential race! "Jay Greene!" As fellow students and former opponents showered him with congratulations, Jay made his way to the front, and gave a short victory speech, expressing his thanks to those who had voted for him, his gratitude to those who had worked for the Trio party, and his intention to fulfill the trust that the students of the school had placed in him when they elected him.

New President Speaks

"I'm very thankful to the students who elected me, and I will try to do as good a job as John Wing and Margaret Ingley have done," Jaya announced later.

Bob Price, the new vice-president, will manage the assemblies during the coming year, and he will incorporate many of his imaginative ideas in his program for good assemblies. Joan Brooks promises that as secretary, she will work as well as she possibly can. Leonard Utz, whose long experience in G.O. affairs will certainly help him a great deal, will work hard to balance the ponderous G.O. budget, and may be able to improve the present G.O. ticket system.

Faculty Viewpoint

Mr. Hendrickson remarked after the outcome of the election was announced, "The students certainly had a free choice to select their leader for next year. My hope is that they will do as good a job as has been done this year. The kind of student government they will have will depend upon the leadership which they have elected this year. Because the vote was reasonably close, it signifies that the students felt that any of the candidates would do a good job."

To The New G. O. Officers

You, the G. O. officers, along with student leaders of other extra-curricular activities have a duty to fulfill. The extra-curricular program has as one of its main purposes the education of the student. The student council gives a chance for the student to get experience in organizing and running a democratic government-something that would be hard to do in the classroom. All the activities help to develop sportsmanship, to give students a sense of responsibility, to give a chance to do work in a field outside of class, and to let the student learn to get along with others. You, the leaders of next year's activities, must make it your duty to try to promote these ends. They are more important than the work at hand. The failure of student leaders to do these things has been one of the principal causes of faculty criticism of activities or of the decline of some of the activities.

Freedom Involves Responsibility

The students of Port High are very fortunate because they are given the opportunity to run their own class meetings, elect their own class officers, and conduct their own class affairs. They are allowed much more freedom in these matters than the students of many schools, and they are allowed to make their own decisions without much interference from the faculty or the school administration. When so much freedom is given, however, a few people insist on abusing the privilege, and infringing upon the rights of the other people.

This situation is becoming more and more apparent in Port High's class meetings, where the noise resembles that normally found only in zoos, and the discourtesy is rivalled only by the participants in a subway rush hour riot. The constant babble of impolite voices completely drowns out the valiant efforts of the officers to be heard. Voting is not carried on seriously, and unqualified people are elected to important positions. And then, these people who are discourteous and noisy when others are speaking, and insincere when they are speaking themselves, are the first ones to complain when something goes wrong.

If you want to retain the privileges of self-government, you must learn to accept the responsibility that goes along with those privileges. The biggest part of that responsibility is sincerity and courtesy when participating in class meetings.

Celerity

Next month Celerity will hold its last meeting for the school year. At that meeting new officers will be chosen for the coming year and any old business will be completed. Afterwards the members plan to hold a small party with ice cream and cookies. Mrs. Piazza, Celerity's faculty advisor, sent the club members a note of thanks for the flowers that the girls sent to her. She is coming along fine and hopes to be back with us in the near future.

Orchestra Concert

As most of you know, the annual spring concert of the school orchestra was held last Friday night. Attendance was fairly good in spite of the fact that the rain kept many away. Those who came seemed to have enjoyed the concert immensely. The choral group under the direction of Mr. christopher sang four selections:
"Madame Jeanette", "Open Our Eyes", "The Naval Hymn", and
"Holy, Holy, Holy". Solo parts were sung by Charles Stanley,
Sally Enscoe, Leone Doyle, and Laurie Newbold.

Modern Dance Recital

On May 16 Miss F.'s terpsichoreans will present their annual modern dance recital. The dances will include such numbers as "Dangerous Dan", "Date Time", and "Shadrak". The recital will be held in the school auditorium at 8:30. Admission will be 50c.

Theater Group

Since the members of the Theater Group were not able to obtain tickets to the popular "Point

Hospital Tours

Next week, on May 9, all the girls who are interested in nurs-ing will have the opportunity to attend different hospitals in order to observe the different jobs the nurses do. There will also be a conducted tour of the hospital. Five of the girls will go to Kings Point, and the others will go to the North Country Community Hospital.

Hello all! We're back again after a very exciting weekend. Friday night there were a few hen parties.

There was quite a bit of commotion coming out of Barbara Beck's where a hen party was in full swing.

Dot Tiemann had a few girls over, namely: Dee Dee Davis, Ann Leonard, Judy Neely, and Dodie Oltarsh. The parties at Beck's and Tiemann's combined for a while at Barbara's to make the noise a little more deafening.

Barbara Ingalls was hostess at a hen party. . .at least it started off as a hen party! All the parties were supplemented with a number of boys.

The orchestra concert was also Friday night but there were very few couples there. Among those that we did notice were Leona Doyle and Kip Fried, Connie Sozzi and Riggie Wile, Joy Burroughs and Randy Dietz, Marile'

Now for Saturday night!

There was a sizable turnout at the President's Ball at which the results of the G. O. election returns were announced.

We're happy to congratulate the new officers who are; Jay Greene, President; Bob Price, Veep; Joan Brooks, Secretary; Len Utz. Treasurer.

Among the many couples participating in the energetic square dancing were; Judy Lincoln and Vinnie Ciminera, Judy Neely and Ted Gohn, Hildegarde Heitmuller Chick Wood, Marni and Brother, Cris and Pete, Connie Sozzi and Tom Hines, Dee Dee and Bob, Martha Sykes and Len Utz, Doris Haviland and Bob Doncourt, Jill Tangerman and Bill Bowman, Margaret Ingley and Jim Roberts, Martha Parker (Manhasset) and Bud John-Marile' and Len, Cookie Knoblach and Tom Chrisite, V-Ann and J. Things & Stuff

By Olga Osterholm Sports Before My Eyes

The first day of the baseball season was bright and clear, and the Port Washington nine was confident that they would beat the East Overshoe High School team. With the umpire, Simon Legree, and the waterboy, Harry Truman, all prepared, the team marched out on the field, as the newly organized cheering section howled, "Rah! Rah! Rah!" Port won the cheering by driving the East Overshoe cheerleaders under the grandstand. The first batter was East Overshoe's Wrong End, Smelch. He hit a line drive down the fourth base line, right into the lands of the Quarterback, Bill Jankowski. This made three outs and the side was retired. At this time, Coach Costello called time out, and the whole team went down to the Alcove for a quick one, leaving the Waterboy, Harry Truman, to go through the stands selling water to the spectators. After the time out, the players returned to the field, and Buster Wiles, the Right Lobster, hit the ball smack into the face of Wrqlmizski, East Overshoe's star pitcher and the sight of the blood was simply awful. Luckily, Tom Dumpson and Bill Levine diverted the attention of the fans by enacting the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet on their knees, in right field. The game was resumed for a time, but had to be called off because of darkness.

The track team has also been very active. It seems that they spend all their time just going around in circles. Felix Oliva, the star, has started a rollerskating team, which will be co-ed.

One funny thing about Miss F.'s little softball players is that they are all girls. So are all her hockey players and basketball players. This is very fortunate, because they could not play for Miss F. if they were not girls. They would have to play for Mr. Seeber, then. And Mr. Seeber doesn't have a hockey team.

Port's Big Day

Tomorrow is Port's biggest sporting event of the entire season, the Port Invitation. Eleven North Shore schools have been invited and they together with Port will compete for top honors in the meet. Very early tomorrow morning buses will arrive from Great Neck, Manhasset, Glen Cove, Garden City, Mineola, OysterBay, Hicksville, Ros-lyn, Westbury, Farmingdale and Sea Cliff. Last year it was the Blazers all the way as they walked all over the opposition. Port was able to salvage only 1/7 of a point when Dwight Otis was in a seven way tie for fourth in the high jump.

By Saturday Port will have competed in its first league track meet. Unless it was halted by rain, Port ventured over to Great Neck on Wednesday, but unfortunately the result wasn't known at press time.

Port's only track meet was a telegraph meet with Hudson High. Coach Costello's thinly-clads took this one 66½-37½. Oliva and Mertz took one and two in the 100 and then reversed the order in the 220. Firsts were taken: in the 440 by Seddon, in the Broadjump and hurdles by Booker and in the 880 relay by Oliva, Stanley, Booker and Mertz. Dell, Cichanowski and Liepins swept the shot put. In warm up games, Port has won three and lost but one. Their only loss came at the hands of Hicksville, 3-2, which they later avenged, 9-1. Coach Seeber's other wins came at the expense of Sea Cliff, 10-6 and Roslyn,

Against Sea Cliff, Wood and Jankowski took on the pitching chores, chucking a four hitter between them. Port collected 10 hits. Stagg, Epaminonde and Madden gave up four hits to Roslyn while Port rapped out seven. Jankowski and Wood were pitching in the losing attempt to Hicksville as they gave up seven hits while the Eagles got only four. In the second game against Hicksville Wood went all the way giving up seven hits, but

What's In A Name

"What's in a name?" Shakes-peare asked that question a couple of hundred years ago, and people have been trying to answer that ever since. Certainly, there doesn't appear to be anything in a name among the students of Port High. Joan does not resemble a CURTIN, nor is Margot par-ticularly LENKE. Daniel NOEL doesn't look much like Santa Claus, and Gerald has nothing to do with BEAVERS. And although Carl is a DAHL, Carol is a JOY, and Ann is a DARLING, Janet is not KUHL, and Dick never goes STAGG. Lillian is definitely not a BLANC, and Nancy has never been in trouble with the COPPS. Lightfooted Ann doesn't KLUMPP, and Joan never babbles like BROOKS. Arthur is a PEARL, Bob is beyond PRICE, and Catherine has many POW-ERS, but Jay is not GREENE, and Betty is not BROWN. Gardham prefers a brush to a COMB, and though Janet is the ELDER, there are many older than she. Joan is not a MARSH, and Chick WOODn't think of doing anything like that. And of course, although Barbara's last name is LYNCH, she is really very non-violent, and would never think of doing

GRADUATION DANCE

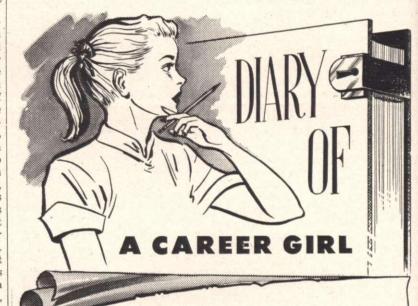

This year for the first time, the High School Men's Association in cooperation of the parents of the senior class will present a dance after the graduation exercises on June 23. This affair promises to be super-colossal with a big name band and entertainers, lots of eats and the atmosphere of a New York nightclub. The dance will last from the time the graduation is over until three o'clock in the morning. Each senior will be given two tickets for himself and a guest. More news of this big event will be brought to you in later issues of The Port Weekly.
