Playing at the Beacon Theater June 16 through 18 is Saskatchewan, starring Alan Ladd and Shelley Winters. A Universal-International Technicolor production, this outdoor drama should prove exciting and entertaining. Years ago, in Saskatchewan, Canadian Mountie Alan Ladd and his Indian friend Jay Silverheels, find Shelley Winters, a sole sur-vivor of an Indian massacre. They take her back to the fort where it develops that she is wanted for murder by Marshall Hugh McBrian. At this time also the Mounties are ordered to leave the fort because the Sioux have come over from America seeking to arouse the Canadian Indians.

The Mounties and the civilians manage to outsmart the Sioux, but only after Alan Ladd has ta-ken over the leadership from the hard - headed fort commander, Robert Douglas. The movie includes a stirring trip of Ladd's to the Indian camp to enlist their aid against the enemy tribe, the attempt to acquit Miss Winters, and the eventual ousting of the Sioux. As well as an exciting plot, Saskatchewan also offers beautiful on - location shots of the majestic Canadian country. "Yankee Pasha," starring Jeff Chandler and Rhonda Fleming, trumpet in the Oswego Symphony and in the school music or-ganizations. Our baby really started coming up in the music world when he blew into the lo-cal "pop" band which made guest appearances at the Mohawk Hotel in the Adirondacks.

He can be seen most often in the north wing of the high school. One of our roving teachers, he has a few different class rooms.

When not tied up with school activities, he can be seen chauf-feuring his six children around town in their 1952 Ford station wagon.

On the personal side of the record, our baby is tall and wears glasses. If you are still in doubt as to his identity, look for his name in the advertisements in the rest of the paper.
